

XM radio is simply another means of communication for America. Why restrict a service that is paid for? I can understand the reasons for broadcast range limitations for local free advertising supported stations in order to keep competition high, but XM is a completely different service. The world is a constantly growing and evolving place for innovation and the continuing success of the human race. Don't let America be like China and fall behind in technology because of political reasons.